2024 AUTUMN NATIONS SERIES

The 2024 Autumn Nations Series kicks off with Ireland's first ever game on a Friday night at the Aviva Stadium when New Zealand come to Dublin on 8th November. This rivalry has become one of the most exciting in the sport, with Ireland now seeking revenge for the quarter-final defeat at the hands of the All Blacks during the 2023 Rugby World Cup.

Ireland then take on Argentina a week later, again under lights on Friday, 15th November. Los Pumas will bring a tough test for Andy Farrell's side, who have beaten the All Blacks and Australia in recent seasons.

Finally, Ireland mark their 150th season with a special fixture against Australia on Saturday, 30th November. This game will see Wallabies coach Joe Schmidt back in Dublin, it is also Andy Farrell's final game in charge before he takes a sabbatical to coach the British & Irish Lions who tour Australia in the summer of 2025.

2025 GUINNESS SIX NATIONS

Ireland go into the 2025 Guinness Six Nations as back-to-back champions and will look to become the first Irish team in history to win three tournaments in a row.

As far as opening games go, it doesn't get much bigger for Ireland as they welcome England to the Aviva Stadium on Saturday 1st February 2025. While Ireland won the championship, England were the only team to beat them in 2024 with a last second drop goal sealing it in Twickenham.

Ireland's second home game of the championship comes against France on 8th March 2025. Les Blues came 2nd in 2024 and will be looking to improve on that position given the strength within their squad, led by the likes of Antoine Dupont and Gregory Alldritt.

THP is the sole Official Hospitality Partner to the IRFU. All games during the 2024 Autumn Series & 2025 Guinness Six Nations are set to be complete sell-outs, so booking early is advised.

HOSPITALITY ROOMS, TICKET LOCATIONS & FACILITIES
